

SOCIETY FOR MILITARY PSYCHOLOGY

Presents this 2019 Presidential Citation to

Hubert Annen, PhD

For his leadership in international military psychology collaborations, his steadfast commitment to advancing military psychology scholarship, and his service to the Society of Military Psychology.

Dr. Annen is currently a Colonel in the reserves. He has worked tirelessly to advance the field of military psychology and enhance the connections of the Society to other military psychology organizations. As an international member of the Society, Dr. Annen has made several presentations at the APA national convention to include this year, and serves as a consulting editor for the Society's flagship journal, Military Psychology. In addition, he currently serves in key leadership roles of both the International Military Testing Association (IMTA) and the International Applied Military Psychology Symposium (IAMPS). Dr. Annen has been an active participant of the annual IMTA conference since 1999. He hosted the annual conference in 2010 and 2017 and he currently serves as the Chair of the Management Board. Dr. Annen's accomplishments within IMTA were recognized in 2012 when he was awarded the Harry H. Greer award. Within IAMPS, Dr. Annen has been a key leader in ensuring the future of this grassroots military psychology organization by not only being an active participant in their annual meetings, but also by serving as Chair and Host of the annual conference in 2013.

In all of these roles, Dr. Annen has used his personal influence, organizational skills, and expertise to advance military psychology globally and to bring members of three different military psychology organizations closer together.

In addition to advancing military psychology through his leadership roles of several military psychology organizations, Dr. Annen's scholarship has also served to advance military psychology. He is currently the editor of Studies of Military Psychology and Pedagogy, publishes extensively in the area of military psychology, and is a highly sought-after international speaker on military psychology.

As an international leader and academic scholar in military psychology and major contributor and consultant to our international committee, I, Stephen V. Bowles, take great pleasure in presenting this Society for Military Psychology Presidential Citation to Dr. Hubert Annen.
