APA Division 19 Regional Symposium Series

4-5 April 2019 | Research Triangle Park, NC

APA Division 19 Regional Symposium Series: Southeast Region/RTI

Abstract Submission Guidelines

Submission Date: NLT 1159pm EST, 15 February 2019

This symposium's theme will be Interdisciplinary Approaches to Supporting the Warfighter across the Lifecycle, with topics spanning prevention, intervention, and promoting positive outcomes among Servicemembers, Veterans, and their families.

Submission Types*:

Individual Podium Presentation: offers presenters an opportunity to showcase their research through a 5-minute individual presentation on the podium

Symposia: 60-minute presentations led by one person and 2-3 other speakers who address a common theme or topic

Workshop: 30- or 60-minute, small-group interactive and experiential sessions that focus on either a specific intervention or assessment or a specific research method or tool

Conversation Hour: 60-minute, relatively informal round table event intended to stimulate discussion on a specific topic. Conversation Hours should include several presenters with different points of view (e.g., mini-debate or panel) plus a moderator with an established reputation in the area who will be responsible for directing the conversation and for keeping the session on schedule. Suitable topics for Conversation Hours might include intellectual topics, such as a specific theory, research method or tool, a basic or applied research question, or new directions for military psychology. Conversation Hours may also be proposed to focus on specific professional issues, such as finding jobs in industry, launching a private practice, or addressing criticisms of the field.

Poster: a great way to present your work on a relaxed environment and provide time to have in-depth, one-on-one conversations with people who are interested in your work.

Please note: Prospective presenters may submit a maximum of two first author presentations.

*If you are unsure of the suitability of a presentation type for your work, please feel free to contact us.
