

1LT Christine Puls is a doctoral candidate at Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) and active duty commissioned officer, in training to be an Army Clinical Psychologist. She earned her Master of Science in Clinical Psychology from USUHS in 2023, and a Master of Arts in Clinical Psychology with an emphasis on Marriage and Family Therapy at Pepperdine University in 2021. She is currently serving as a behavioral health extern at Kimbrough Ambulatory Care Center at Ft. Meade, MD provisioning psychotherapy to active duty service members. She additionally completed externships in psychological assessment at the United States Naval Academy and Neuropsychology Associates of Fairfax. Her dissertation is focused on understanding the comorbidity of trauma, stress-related disorders, and eating disorders in active-duty military. She is actively contributing to a recently established Division 19 collaboration initiative with Ukrainian military psychologists under the guidance of Dr. Bruce Crow. In this role she is leading key actions that assist the Ukrainian military adapt U.S/NATO approaches to combat and operational stress control to their current combat operations. She currently serves as the APAGS Representative for Division 18, leading a team of eight students. She received the Division 18 presidential recognition for Outstanding Service award in 2023 and is passionate about serving military service members and veterans.