

CPT John Eric M. Novosel-Lingat serves as the Deputy Director for the Research Transition Office (RTO) at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research (WRAIR). As a Research Psychologist within the Center for Military Psychiatry and Neuroscience (CMPN) at WRAIR, he leads research protocols as a primary investigator related to readiness, resilience, and suicide prevention. Prior to commissioning, Johnny served as a public school teacher in the District of Columbia, and after leading as an Assistant Principal and Summer School Principal, he pursued his doctoral degree, focused on psychometric measurement of cognition, performance, and achievement. Johnny is an educational psychology doctoral graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he completed his internship with the College of Education Evaluation Center, predoctoral research residency with the University Office of Strategic Planning and Institutional Effectiveness, and a two-year Lyman T. Johnson fellowship with the College of Education. He earned his undergraduate and masters degree from the American University in Washington, DC. He has completed programs for instructional coaching at Teachers College, Columbia University and continuous improvement processes at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Johnny is completing an advanced certificate in positive psychology at the University of Pennsylvania.

